Sustainability

A guide for concord eillieferservice GmbH & Co. KG

In a globalized world, the importance of sustainable business models is continuously growing. Companies must not only achieve economic success but also operate in an ecologically and socially responsible manner. This is especially crucial for logistics service providers like concord eillieferservice GmbH & Co. KG, as the industry has a significant environmental impact.

The recognition of concord with the EcoVadis Gold Label and SQAS certification in 2024 underscores its commitment to embedding sustainable practices into its operations.

So, what does sustainability mean for a company like concord ?

How do these certifications influence the company's practices ?

What does sustainability mean in logistics ?

Sustainability in logistics involves a comprehensive set of actions aimed at reducing the environmental impact of transportation and warehousing operations.

These measures include lowering CO2 emissions, optimizing supply chains, utilizing eco-friendly vehicles, and promoting recycling initiatives.

The social aspect is equally important: fair working conditions, employee health and safety, and ethical business practices are all integral components of a sustainable logistics model.

EcoVadis and the Gold Label

EcoVadis is one of the world's most renowned platforms for evaluating corporate sustainability. It assesses companies based on 21 criteria, grouped into four main areas: Environment, Labor and Human Rights, Ethics, and Sustainable Procurement. The assessment results in a score, with the Gold Label being awarded only to the top 5% of companies evaluated.

The award of the EcoVadis Gold Label to concord sends a strong signal of the company's dedication to sustainable practices. This recognition reflects not only concord's commitment to environmental responsibility but also its holistic approach, which encompasses ethical business practices and social responsibility.

The importance of SQAS certification

The Safety & Quality Assessment System (SQAS) is a specialized evaluation system designed for logistics companies and distributors in the chemical industry. It assesses companies across four key areas: safety, environment, quality, and corporate social responsibility (CSR). SQAS certification ensures that logistics service providers like concord meet the highest standards, which is especially crucial in the sensitive chemical industry.

The SQAS assessment is thorough and requires companies to continuously improve their processes. For concord, certification represents not only compliance with industry standards but also an opportunity to position itself as a preferred partner for chemical companies that demand excellence from their logistics providers.

Strategic sustainability at concord

For concord, sustainability is not just a buzzword, but an integral part of the corporate strategy. The EcoVadis and SQAS certifications are important components of this strategy, which aims to ensure the long-term success of the company by acting responsibly.

But what is concord doing to meet these high standards ?

- ▶ Energy efficiency and emission reduction: concord is dedicated to continuously improving energy efficiency. This commitment includes utilizing a modern, environmentally friendly vehicle fleet, adopting alternative drive technologies, and optimizing route planning to minimize fuel consumption.
- ▶ Sustainable supply chains: concord works closely with its suppliers to ensure they meet high sustainability standards. This includes selecting suppliers who are dedicated to ethical working conditions and who use environmentally friendly materials and processes.

- ▶ Employee development and engagement: concord places a strong emphasis on the continuous training and development of its employees to ensure they are knowledgeable about and can implement sustainability best practices. The company also fosters a strong commitment to sustainable initiatives within its workforce, ensuring that all employees work in a safe and healthy environment.
- ▶ Transparency and reporting: another key element of concord's sustainability strategy is transparency towards stakeholders. Regular reporting and communication of the goals achieved build trust and ensure continuous improvement.

The challenges of sustainability in logistics

Although concord has already taken many important steps to achieve its sustainability goals, the company – like the entire industry – faces significant challenges. The logistics industry is one of the main sources of CO2 emissions, and reducing these emissions requires significant investment and innovation. This affects not only the vehicle fleet, but also the entire supply chain, from production to transportation and storage. Another problem is the growing demand for fast deliveries, which is often at odds with sustainable practices. Here, concord must find innovative solutions to meet customer expectations while minimizing environmental impact.

Future Prospects

Sustainability as a competitive advantage

For concord, implementing sustainability strategies is not just a necessity, but also offers significant competitive advantages. Companies that commit to sustainable practices can differentiate themselves from competitors and unlock new business opportunities. This is especially relevant in sectors like the chemical industry, where customers are increasingly seeking logistics service providers who adhere to strict environmental and safety standards.

In addition, consumer awareness of sustainability is growing, and companies that take a pioneering role in this area can benefit from a positive reputation, which directly impacts business success.

The award of the EcoVadis Gold Label and SQAS certification is significant milestone for concord eillieferservice GmbH & Co. KG, highlighting the company's commitment to sustainability in logistics. However, these achievements are just the beginning of a long-term journey. Through continuous improvement, investment in modern technology, and close collaboration with all stakeholders, concord will be able to achieve its sustainability goals and position itself as a leading provider in the industry. In a world that is increasingly focused on sustainability, this is not only a responsibility but also a tremendous opportunity for the company's long-term success.
